ABSTRACT

The first of two indexes of educational research and development projects in the United Kingdom is arranged alphabetically by institution conducting the work. Each entry gives the name of the project, the financing organization, the name of the project director, and notes on the status of the project (completed, feasibility study, or in progress). The second index is arranged by subject matter and is cross referenced to the institution concerned. Projects indexed concern curriculum development for education up to and including secondary schooling; evaluation techniques; student, teacher, and community characteristics related to education; special education, including gifted and handicapped children; educational administration variables; and cover all subject areas and a variety of teaching techniques. Projects are indexed in alphabetical order in two parts of the book.

The first one, under INSTITUTIONS shows the name of the director or investigator and the name of the financing organisation. Further details e.g. duration and cost of project, publication arising out of the project's work etc. are obtainable either from the project director or from the financing organisation.

Part two under SUBJECTS gives no details, but leads to INSTITUTIONS where the work is (or was) carried out, e.g. The project on "the use of computers for constructing school timetables" is shown twice: (1) under "computers and (2) under "timetable". Both subjects lead to the INSTITUTION.
